Mitch Carmody, GSP, CCP, is a writer, artist and a nationally recognized authority on the bereavement process. He is the visionary of Proactive Grieving® and the S.T.A.I.R.S.® model of grief processing that is changing the way America grieves. Mitch has been working with bereaved families and bereavement organizations for over 25 years. He has conducted workshops in every major city across the nation reaching the bereaved, hospice/health care professionals, counselors, social workers and clergy for over 20 years. Mitch is a Grief Facilitator for the Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors (T.A.P.S.) of military loss, member of A.D.E.C. (Association for Death Education & Counseling) and has served on the National Board of Directors for The Compassionate Friends. He is the author of several books, including "Letters to My Son," which tells his story as a bereaved parent.
